

A black and white line drawing of a Halloween scene. In the center is a large, friendly-looking ghost with a wide, open mouth showing a tongue. The ghost's body is a simple outline. Below the ghost is a jack-o'-lantern with a carved face (triangular eyes, a triangular nose, and a jagged mouth). The jack-o'-lantern is filled with various candies, including a lollipop and several round candies. Above the jack-o'-lantern are two small bats with large, spread-out wings. The background is filled with several five-pointed stars of different sizes. The entire image is composed of numbered parts for coloring: the ghost's body is 1, its eyes are 2, its mouth is 3, its wings are 4, and its body is 5. The jack-o'-lantern's body is 6, its eyes are 1, its nose is 2, its mouth is 3, and its body is 4. The bats' wings are 4, 5, and 6, and their bodies are 3. The stars are numbered 3, 4, 5, and 6.
